Tony's Segway

Segway'n USA

Documenting my trip around the US on my very own Segway!

June 2, 2005

My first day of the trip! I can't believe I finally got everything packed and ready to go. Because I'm on a Segway, I wasn't able to bring a whole lot with me: cell phone, iPod, digital camera, and a protein bar. Just the essentials. As Lao Tzu would have said, "A journey of a thousand miles begins with one ~~step~~ Segway."

July 14, 2005

I saw some Burma Shave style signs on the side of the road today: "Passing cars, When you can't see, May get you, A glimpse, Of eternity." I definitely won't be passing any cars! ☺

August 20 2005

Well I made it 1200 miles already, and I passed through some interesting places on the way: Walla Walla, WA, Magic City, ID, Bountiful, UT, Last Chance, CO, Why, AZ and Truth or Consequences, NM.

Make sure you read through Tony's adventures - they'll come i handy throughout the chapter.

I saw some Burma Shave style signs on the side of the road today: "Passing cars, When you can't see, May get you, A glimpse, Of eternity." I definitely won't be passing any cars.

I saw some Burma Shave style signs on the side of the road today:

Passing cars,
When you can't see,
May get you,
A glimpse,
Of eternity.

If you don't know what "Burma Shave" slogans are, we'll tell you all about them in just a few pages...

I definitely won't be passing any cars.

A screenshot of a blockquote containing a poem. The text is displayed in a monospaced font and is indented from the left side of the page. The poem reads: "Passing cars,
When you can't see,
May get you,
A glimpse,
Of eternity." The background of the screenshot is a light gray grid.

Passing cars,
When you can't see,
May get you,
A glimpse,
Of eternity.

the `<blockquote>` tag specifies a section that is quoted from another source.

Here's how this HTML looks,
`` is nested inside ``.

GOOD: here the `` element is nested inside the ``.

looks more like this:

`I'm so going to blog this`

WRONG: the `` tag ends before the `` tag! The `` element is supposed to be inside the `` element.

BAD: here the `` element has leaked outside of the `` element, which means it's not properly nested inside it.

Crack the Location Challenge

Dr. Evel, in his quest for world domination, has put up a private web page to be used by his evil henchmen. You've just received a snippet of intercepted HTML that may contain a clue to his whereabouts. Given your expert knowledge of HTML, you've been asked to crack the code and discover his location. Here's a bit of the text from his home page:

There's going to be an evil henchman meetup next month at my underground lair in &#208;&epsilon;&tau;&#114;&ouml;&igrave;&tau;.
Come join us.

Element Soup

Whenever you want to make a link, you'll need the `` element.

``

Use this element for short quotes... you know, like "to be or not to be", or "No matter where you go, there you are."

`<q>`

Just give me a paragraph, please.

``

The code element is used for displaying code from a computer program.

`<code>`

Use this element to mark up text you want emphasized.

``

Use this element to mark up text you want emphasized with extra strength.

``

Use this element for formatted text when you want the browser to show your text exactly as you typed it.

`<pre>`

An empty element for making linebreaks...

``

... and another one for making horizontal lines (called "horizontal rules"), like to start a new section without a heading.

`<hr>`

If you need an ordered list instead, use the `<ol>` element.

`<ol>`

Need to display a list? Say, a list of ingredients in a recipe or a todo list? Use the `<ul>` element.

`<ul>`

For items in lists, like chocolate, hot chocolate, chocolate syrup ...

`<li>`

Blockquote is for lengthy quotations. Something that you want to highlight as a longer passage, say, from a book.

`<blockquote>`

Here's a bunch of elements you already know, and a few you don't.

Remember, half the fun of HTML is experimenting! So make some files of your own and try these out.
